

Deadly Delhi Day 10th April 2014

To celebrate our link with our sister Presentation school in Delhi, India, our commitment to development education & our next Green Flag on Global Citizenship there was a “Deadly Delhi Day” in Coláiste Bríde. G5/G6 was decked out with exotic scarves, Indian flags, saris, the smell of incense and spices of India filled the air and Bollywood tunes were played all to create an oriental feel.

Classes were introduced to each stall starting with “Namaste!” and a Hindu blessing read by Sr. Anne. Stalls included Bindis the traditional red dot worn by Hindus, Saris and other traditional outfits of eastern countries, Henna, Rahkis, Bollywood, Environment, Geography of India, Jewellery sale, Spice expo with traditional food and other artefacts and souvenirs of the teacher’s trip to PCS in Delhi.

Well done to Clonborris National School who won Fairtrade Status for Clondalkin and who showed us some Fairtrade products as well as their certificate. Also well done to Scoil Mhuire who are a year ahead of us on Green Flags and will hopefully get their Global Citizenship flag this May.

The day was truly “deadly” according to students and the henna girls had to work nonstop to keep up with demand. The jewellery sold well so hopefully we will have raised a decent amount to help with funding for PCS Delhi! All good Karma!

Well done to everyone involved! Namaste to Sr’s. Jenny, Claire & Collette as well as Sr Anne. Also Lizzy Noone from World Wise our sponser.
